CONCEPT NOTE

Geography matters in everyday decision-making, and we use it knowingly or inadvertently without realizing it. The implementation decade of 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDG's) has accentuated the relevance of the subject across disciplines. With the higher education ecosystem impacted directly through scores acquired for Academic Performance Indicators (API) in recruitments and career advancement, the refresher course like the present becomes beneficial. Geography crops up everywhere, yet whose uses seem to be changing recurrently, producing new and often surprising variations of meaning. The course aims bridge the complexities and understand the relational inter-linkages between 3G's, geography, geographers and geospatial technologies.
