CONCEPT NOTE

In the current knowledge-based economy, the protection and commercialization of intellectual property rights (IPRs) has become increasingly important. As educators in higher education, it is essential that we equip ourselves with a strong understanding of IPRs, their legal protections, and strategies for commercializing them. The faculty development programme on intellectual property rights will provide valuable insights for higher education teachers on this topic.

The programme will cover a range of topics, including an introduction to IPRs, patent, trademark, copyright, and trade secret law, as well as licensing and commercializing IPRs. It will also explore the latest developments and emerging trends in the field of intellectual property. By participating in the programme, teachers will be able to enhance their professional skills, gain a deeper understanding of the importance of IPRs, and develop innovative and creative teaching practices that incorporate IPR concepts. The programme will ultimately contribute to the overall growth and competitiveness of higher education institutions, and better equip teachers to prepare students for success in the knowledge-based economy.
